What's Going on in ASIA?

利花 赵

Never let FAR be accused of provincialism! Just because we are based in Phoenix, Arizona in the US of A doesn't mean we're not looking at the international art and collecting scene. China, for example, has one of the longest and richest cultural backgrounds of any country on Earth, plus a thriving contemporary art scene. And Lihua Zhao, our new Asian correspondent, is bringing us the latest on art and collecting in China and the rest of Asia. Read her first article Handmade Silk Embroidery with insight on how to tell the real from the false here and stay tuned for her upcoming articles on all aspects of art in what is an artistic giant. ✍

art&antiques Publishes Article About Fine Art Registry

Hey! Check out the October issue of Art & Antiques Magazine, page 52 on the Art Crime page. You will find a very succinct description of your very own Fine Art Registry and its value in preventing art crime and assisting in recovery of lost and stolen pieces. Get a copy and read it. It's one of the best mags out there.

Articles you Should Read

The FAR website is becoming a wealth of really useful information for artists and collectors. Some of the new material is also a really good read and will open your eyes. Here are a couple of articles you should go and read right now:

Something About Collectors of Fine Art

by Cork Marcheschi

"The relationship of the art collector to the artist is long-lived and very interesting...."
